Ross Security Systems to Manufacture Heald Ltd Perimeter Security Products

February 2012

Ross Security Systems is pleased to announce their appointment as Heald Ltd's exclusive USA-based manufacturing partner. Ross will manufacture Heald's full range of PAS68 & ASTM rated products for distribution in the United States, thus enabling Heald products to be supplied to the U.S. market with the best possible service and value.

Currently world leaders in road-blocking technology, Heald Ltd shows longevity few in the industry can match. Having recently celebrated 25 successful years in the industry, Heald's solid reputation is evident by repeated awards for customer satisfaction from high-profile clients and government agencies worldwide. Their global product installations have been operational for many years, with many original units still in operation today - a testament to Heald's quality, durability, and commitment to exceed standards of excellence. As terrorist threats become ever more sophisticated, and the financial climate remains uncertain, Heald has responded by manufacturing designs that are robust and cost-effective, like the recent launch of their Raptor (shallow mount bollard) and Viper (shallow mount wedge) barriers.

“We have been looking for suitable partners for the last two years. We feel Ross not only offers excellent manufacturing facilities, but also can offer an excellent distribution and backup network for our products. They are a company that has been established for fifty years, with an enthusiasm to match Heald's for quality, reliability and longevity of product life. We feel very excited about this new venture”. (Debbie Heald, Company Director of Heald Ltd)

With their joint goal to provide superior anti-terrorist force protection and the highest level of service, Ross and Heald are confident this partnership will offer their clients the best the industry has to offer. “Providing innovative products to help our countries meet the challenges they face in uncertain global and financial conditions was the driving force that brought our two companies together.
